Cardano is the world's first ever academic, peer-reviewed decentralized blockchain solution and ADA is the native cryptocurrency that powers that protocol. Cardano and ADA were created by ex-Ethereum co-founder CHARLES HOSKINSON.

Charles Hoskinson is yet another pioneer in the cryptocurrency space working to push overall adoption forward and has played an important role in the early phases of the industry.

Cardano uses a programming language that is native to military infrastructure and other high profile industries, making it extremely valuable and interesting to a variety of sectors. It may also be used to prevent counterfeiting in the future, hence our overwhelming belief in it's potential.
